EARNED-RUNS RULE

The determination of earned-runs is as follows:

'An earned-run is a run for which the pitcher is held accountable. In determining earned-runs, the inning should be reconstructed without the errors and passed balls, and the benefit of the doubt should always be given to the pitcher in determining which bases would have been reached with errorless play.'

Until 1969, a reliever could not be charged with an earned-run if he entered the game after the side could have been retired but for an error, no matter how many runs he subsequently gave up in that inning. Now, runs scored by batters who reach base off the reliever are charged as earned on that pitcher's record. They are not, however, charged as earned against the team as a whole. Therefore, a discrepancy may occur between the total earned-runs charged against a team and the sum total of the earned-runs charged against the individual pitchers of that team.

batted .400 as a pinch hitter in 2009, with six hits in 15 at-bats, including three rbi.

ABOUT THE TWINS DESIGNATED HITTER

- The designated hitter was implemented for American League teams at the start of the 1973 season. The Twins first ever designated hitter was Tony Oliva, who went 2-for-4 with a HR, 3 RBI, a run scored and a walk on April 6, 1973 at Oakland. It was the first home run ever hit by a designated hitter in Major League Baseball.
- In 2009, 13 different Twins players recorded at-bats at the DH spot totaling 22 HR's, 99 RBI and a batting average of .292 with 83 runs scored, 33 doubles and 69 walks.
- Since the beginning of 2005, the Twins are last among American League teams in HR's from their designated hitter with 77, while Boston (185) and the Chicago White Sox (177) lead all teams.
- Just two players have totaled 502 at bats-or-more in a single season All-Time in a Twins uniform as a designated hitter. Paul Molitor hit .340 with 8 HR's and 100 RBI in 1996 while Chili Davis hit .277 with 29 HR's and 93 RBI in 1991. Both players won the Outstanding Designated Hitter Award in those respective years.

MORNEAU IN THE COMMUNITY

Starting in 2007, Morneau dedicated $100 per rbi to renovate Minnesota youth ball fields. Thus far, his funds have helped four communities and Justin has committed to renovating two ball fields each year. He works to raise funds and acts as a spokesman for youth with juvenile rheumatoid arthritis, inviting families dealing with juvenile rheumatoid arthritis to a day at the ballpark. In 2009 Justin and Krista held the first annual "Justin Morneau Casino Night" benefiting juvenile arthritis. Morneau's Mounties, a community ticket program, was established to provide Twins game tickets to thousands of economically disadvantaged youth from the Twin Cities. In 2009, Justin dedicated more than 5,000 tickets to the families of the U.S. Military. Finally, during the off-season, Justin and Krista Morneau help families in need by purchasing Thanksgiving dinners and holiday gifts for families of military members deployed overseas and other families in need.

SAVES RULE

Credit a pitcher with a save when he meets all three of the following conditions:

(1) He is the finishing pitcher in a game won by his club; and
(2) He is not the winning pitcher; and
(3) He qualifies under one of the following conditions:
   (a) He enters the game with a lead of no more than three runs and pitches for at least one inning; or
   (b) He enters the game with the potential tying run either on base, at bat or on deck; or
   (c) He pitches effectively for at least three innings.

No more than one save may be credited in each game.

It is considered a 'blown save' when a pitcher who has entered a game in a save situation departs with the save situation no longer in effect because he has given up the lead. If the save situation still exists when he leaves the game, he is not charged with a save opportunity. And, if he has not given up the lead when he leaves the game, even though the save situation may no longer exist, he is not charged with a save opportunity.

DESIGNATED HITTER RULE

A hitter may be designated to bat for the pitcher in any spot in the batting order in any game without affecting the status of the pitcher. The designated hitter must be selected and be included on the lineup cards presented to the umpire-in-chief prior to the game. Failure to do so precludes the use of the designated hitter for that game.

The designated hitter is 'locked' into the batting order but may be removed for a pinch-hitter or pinch-runner, who in turn immediately becomes the designated hitter. The designated hitter, while still in the game, may be used defensively but the pitcher must then assume the batting of the replaced defensive player, thus terminating the designated hitter role. The designated hitter is eligible for all American League batting titles.

PINCH-HITTER RULE

A player shall be considered a pinch-hitter only if he enters the game as a substitute batter, and then only on his first time at bat, which must be before he becomes a fielder. (If the team bats around and a pinch-hitter comes up a second time in the inning in which he first appeared, he will not be considered a pinch-hitter during that second time up.)

A substitute hitter for a designated hitter is both a pinch-hitter and a designated hitter on his first time at bat. On subsequent trips to the plate he is a designated hitter only.

Did you know?

. . . that in 1976 Twin pitcher Bill Campbell went 17-5 with a 3.00 ERA and 20 saves in 78 relief appearances for the Twins. He became the second player in major league history to win and save at least 15 games in a season since saves became an official statistic in 1969 (Dodger's Mike Marshall won 15 and saved 21 in 1974). Campbell's 17 victories ties the American League record for wins in relief. In 1977, Twins reliever Tom Johnson became the third player in Major League history to win and save at least 15 games. He finished the season 16-7 with a 3.12 ERA and 15 saves in 71 relief appearances.

...that only once in their 49 seasons have the Twins won three games in a row by the same score. They beat Boston on September 3, 1987, 2-1, and followed with 2-1 victories over Milwaukee the next two days, all three of which took place in the Metrodome. The Twins have twice lost three games in a row by the same score. They were 2-1 games, July 21-23, 1967 at California, and 4-3 decisions, May 2-4, 1988, the first two coming at Milwaukee and the third at Baltimore. Did you know?

...that the Twins' best homestand ever took place during the 1991 season. The team went 10-0 from June 3-13 against Baltimore (3-0), Cleveland (4-0) and New York (3-0). The franchise's best road trip resulted in 7 wins in 8 tries, accomplished twice. The first was a New York, Milwaukee and Boston trip, April 28 to May 7, 1972 and with the second coming 30 years later on a Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago trip from July 17-July 24, 2002. The Twins have had two trips over the years on which they've won 10 games, however. They were 10-7 between July 23 and August 8, 1963, and 10-6 from August 14-27, 1967.

...that on September 22, 1968 vs. Oakland at Metropolitan Stadium Cesar Tovar became the second major leaguer ever to play all nine positions in one game. He is also the only position player to be the starting pitcher in Twins' history, as he tossed a scoreless first inning, including a strikeout of Reggie Jackson. He went on to catch, play first base, shortstop, third base, left field, center field and right field for an inning a piece.

Did you know?

. . . that on 22 occasions Twins catchers and pitchers have combined to nab three would-be base-stealers in a game, but only once, May 29, 1982, have they ever nailed four runners. Ken Griffey, Graig Nettles, Bobby Murcer and Willie Randolph were caught by catcher Sal Butera that day; Nettles and Murcer as part of a Twins' tripleplay.

Did you know?

...that the longest home run ever hit by a Twin was estimated at 520 feet. Harmon Killebrew crushed the three-run blast off California righty Lou Burdette, which landed in the sixth row of the upper deck at Metropolitan Stadium on June 3, 1967. The ball cracked the seat, which was later painted orange to commemorate the event.

PLAYER LIMITS

Major league rosters are limited to 25 active players from Opening Day through August 31. Teams may expand their active rosters to as many as 40 players on September 1. During the course of the season, a team may place as many players as they want on the 15-day disabled list, during which they must remain inactive for a minimum of 15 days (no maximum). Teams may also place as many players as they need to on the 60-day emergency disabled list, where they must remain for a minimum of 60 days, but only when the club is at the maximum of 40 players. Players carried on this list are not counted in 40-man roster limit. If placed or transferred there after 60 days prior to the final game of the season, the player must remain there through post-season.

Did you know?

. . . that in 1997 Brad Radke won 12 decisions in 12 consecutive starts, becoming one of only four pitchers in the last 50 years to post a win in 12 straight starts.

UMPIRE INTERVIEW POLICY

Major League umpires shall cooperate with the news media concerning controversial plays, protested games and unusual incidents, ejections, etc. Any unusual plays should be explained to the press box, usually between innings. Umpires are available for post-game interviews relative to unusual or controversial happenings. The senior umpire is in charge of such interviews and will act as a spokesman for the 'crew'.

MAJOR LEAGUE WAIVER RULES

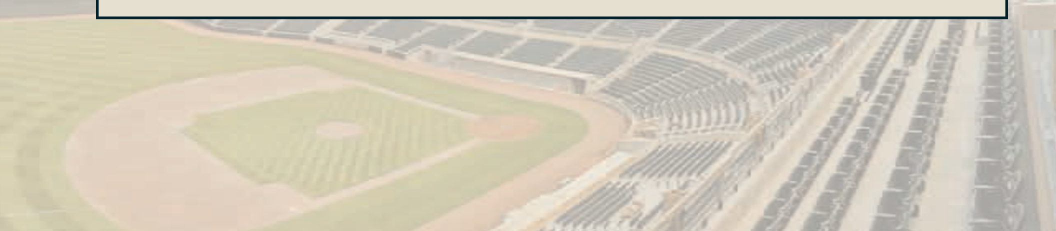

There are four types of waiver requests: Trade Assignment Waivers, Outright Assignment Waivers, Optional Assignment Waivers and Unconditional Release Waivers

Trade Assignment Waivers (formerly Major League Waivers) – Are necessary for any player assignment between Major League clubs made from August 1 until the day after the close of the regular season. Waivers are required to trade any player during this time period. Prior to August 1, players may be traded from one organization to another without waivers.

Outright Assignment Waivers (formerly Outright or Special Waivers) – Are irrevocable and are required for a Major League Club to assign a Major League player outright (i.e., without right of recall) to a Minor League Club during certain periods through the year.

Optional Assignment Waivers (formerly Major League Waivers) – Are required in order for a Major League Club to assign a Major League player optionally (i.e., with right of recall) to a Minor League Club, if required by Rule 10(e)(4). Optional assignment waiver request may be revocable or irrevocable.

Unconditional Release Waivers - Can be secured at any point during the year.

ABOUT THE UNIFORMS

In addition to the changes to the primary and secondary logos along with club lettering, the uniforms worn for the 2010 Inaugural Season at Target Field reflect the first substantial changes since 1987.

The home and alternate sleeveless jerseys are white with navy blue pinstripes. The modified Twins script in scarlet is on the front, along with the Twins State of Minnesota patch on the left sleeve. The player's names are directly embroidered above the numbers on the back. The alternate navy blue jersey has the same Twins script on the front, along with the same patch and name treatment. For the 2010 season, the home white and alternate navy blue jerseys have the Inaugural Season patch on the right sleeve. The alternate sleeveless has a smaller version of the Inaugural Season patch on the left chest.

The road uniform is solid grey with navy piping. Pinstripes have been removed and the block Minnesota lettering has been changed to a modified navy blue version of the Minnesota script, reminiscent of the team's jackets from the 1960's through the early 1980's. Names are directly embroidered above the numbers. The new primary logo is displayed as a patch on the left sleeve. For the 2010 season, a 50th Season patch is on the right sleeve.

The Twins will wear an alternate home uniform on Saturdays for the 2010 season. It is a replica of the uniform worn in 1961, when the Twins began play in Minnesota. The Inaugural Season patch on the right sleeve and "two guys shaking hands" patch on the left. The current home hat is worn with this alternate.

The home hat remains navy blue with an interlocking scarlet and white script "TC". The road hat is the same as the home, except for a red bill. The "M" hat is an alternate. For the 2010 season, hats have a side patch of the Inaugural Season mark.

ROBERTO CLEMENTE AWARD

Since 1971, Major League Baseball has annually presented an award that recognizes a player who best exemplifies the game of baseball through sportsmanship, community involvement and positive contributions to his team.

In 1973, following the tragic death of Roberto Clemente, the award was named to honor the man whose spirit and goodwill will always be remembered. The 12-time All-Star and Hall of Famer was killed in a plane crash in 1972 delivering food and medical supplies to earthquake victims of Nicaragua. The award recognizes those individuals who truly understand the value of helping others.

A panel of baseball dignitaries, including Vera Clemente and Commissioner Allan H. (Bud) Selig, annually selects the winner from a list of 30 candidates, one from each Major League Baseball Club. These local winners are announced in September during Roberto Clemente Day. The winner of the national Roberto Clemente Award is announced during a pre game ceremony at the World Series. Past winners include Jamie Moyer; Jim Thome; Rod Carew; Dave Winfield; Kirby Puckett; Curt Schilling; Al Leiter; Tony Gwynn, Willie Mays, Ozzie Smith, and Cal Ripken, Jr.

The 2009 Minnesota Twins Roberto Clemente Award nominee was catcher Joe Mauer.

40TH SEASON ANNIVERSARY ALL-TIME TEAM

In 2000, the Minnesota Twins celebrated 40 years of baseball in Minnesota. As part of that celebration, the Twins announced the Twins All-Time Team as part of the ballclub's 40th Season Celebration.

Voting for the Twins All-Time Team was split into three phases, including: the Fans, the Upper Midwest Media and the Players (former/current Twins players and coaches). Each groups' vote counted one-third toward the final balloting results with the top vote recipients at each position automatically being named to the team. The All-Time Team selection committee reserved the right to name additional players to the final roster based upon overall vote totals.

The All-Time Team took part in an on-field pre-game ceremony on August 12, 2000 and a poster depicting the All-Time team was given to the first 10,000 fans in attendance, courtesy of the Star Tribune.

A total of 93 Twins players and managers were featured on the All-Time Team ballot which included categories for each of the following: Manager, Catcher, First Base, Second Base, Third Base, Shortstop, Outfield, Right-Hand Starting Pitcher, Left-Hand Starting Pitcher, Relief Pitcher, Designated Hitter, Pinch Hitter and Utility Player.

2009 MINOR LEAGUE RECAP

ROCHESTER (70-74, AAA, International League) -- The Red Wings hovered around the .500 mark the entire season, reaching a season-high four games over on May 14. Despite being only one game under .500 with five games to play, the Wings missed out on a sixth consecutive winning record and finished in fourth place in the North Division. For the season, the Wings ranked third in the IL in batting (.266) and sixth in runs scored (644). First baseman Justin Huber led the way offensively, hitting .273 with a team high 22 home runs and 76 RBI. He was one of six Red Wings' position players called up to Minnesota during the year. On the mound, the Wings were thirteenth in ERA (4.27). Right-handed pitcher Rob Delaney tied for the team lead in wins (7) and led the team in saves (7). The Wings also sent eight pitchers to Minnesota, including five who made starts for the Twins. In total, Red Wings pitchers totaled 17 wins for the Major League club.

NEW BRITAIN (72-69, AA, Eastern League) -- The Rock Cats finished second in the North Division and earned a playoff berth in the final series of the season by winning three of four games against Trenton. New Britain finished fifth in the league in runs scored (624) and seventh in ERA (3.94). The Rock Cats sent five players to the Eastern League All-Star Game (2B Brian Dinkelman, 1B Whit Robbins, OF Rene Tosoni, RP Matt Fox, and RP Anthony Slama), while Dinkelman and Slama were also named to the Eastern League Postseason All-Star team. Dinkelman finished seventh in the league in batting (.296), third in OBP (.383), and second in doubles (38), while Slama led the league in saves (25) and compiled 93 strikeouts in 65.1 innings before being promoted to Rochester on August 12. DOMINICAN REPUBLIC BASEBALL ACADEMY

The Twins Dominican Republic operations were completely revamped following the 2003 season. The club relocated its training complex to a state-of-the-art baseball complex in Boca Chica, which opened in May, 2004.

The Complejo Latinamericano de Beisbol, S.A. (a.k.a. "Baseball City") houses four Major League organizations: Arizona, Chicago Cubs, Cincinnati and the Twins. Each club has its own individual facilities within one large complex.

The club provides housing and meals for amateur players working out in the Academy program, as well as for its professional players on the Dominican Summer League team.

A lower level of the two-story building includes a locker room, weight training room, office/meeting space, laundry, kitchen and a large dining room. The second floor features seven dormitory rooms which can accommodate up to 56 players, two large staff rooms, and a large game room. Programs are provided year-round to teach English and cultural development to all signed players.

Boca Chica is located 30 minutes east of downtown Santo Domingo, and the Twins complex is just 10 minutes from the international airport.

The playing facilities include a full-sized playing field, an additional infield for workouts and drills, two covered batting tunnels and a six-mound training area for pitchers.

The Twins Dominican facility is in full operation from February through mid-December.

BEN REVERE AND DAVID BROMBERG NAMED 2009 TWINS MINOR LEAGUE PLAYER AND PITCHER OF THE YEAR

Outfielder Ben Revere was named the 2009 Sherry Robertson Award winner as the Twins' Minor League Player of the Year and righthanded pitcher David Bromberg was named the 2009 Jim Rantz Award winner as the Twins' Minor League Pitcher of the Year.

The 21-year-old Revere batted .311 (145-for-466) with 13 doubles, four triples, two home runs, 48 rbi, 75 runs scored, 45 steals and 40 walks in 121 games for Single-A Ft. Myers (Florida State League). He was named the Twins' Minor League Player of the Week, May 29, after batting .500 (11-for-22) with two doubles and four runs scored. Revere becomes the second Twins Minor League player to have ever won the Sherry Robertson Award in back-to-back seasons, the other being pitcher LaTroy Hawkins in 1993 and '94. Revere compiled 45 multi-hit games including 12 three-hit games for the Miracle.

The 5-foot-9, 165-pounder was a 2009 midseason and postseason Florida State League All-Star and was named the Florida State League Player of the Week, May 11-17, after batting .625 (10-for-16) with five runs scored in four games. Revere was also named the eighth-best prospect in the Florida State League by Baseball America after leading the League with 145 hits including a team-high, 45 stolen bases. He was originally acquired by the Twins in the first round (28th overall) of the June 2007 First-Year Player Draft.

Bromberg, 22, spent the season at Single-A Ft. Myers and went 13-4, 2.70 (153.1 ip, 46 er) with 63 walks and 148 strikeouts while holding opponents to a .224 batting average in 27 games (26 starts). The right-hander from Los Angeles went 4-0, 1.45 ERA (31.0 ip, 5 er) with 27 strikeouts in May and was named the Twins' Pitcher of the Month. Bromberg was also named the Twins' Pitcher of the Week, July 31, after going 2-0, 0.68 ERA (13.1 ip, 1 er) and was later named Florida State League Pitcher of the Week, August 3-9, after going 2-0, with a 0.60 ERA (15.0 ip, 1 er).

The 6-for-5, 255-pounder improved his Minor League career record to 34-17 over four years in the Twins organization. He set career-highs in wins (13), innings pitched (153.1) and led the Florida State League with 148 strikeouts, as well as making the start in the Florida State League All-Star Game. Bromberg, who was drafted by the Twins in the 32nd round of the 2005 First-Year Player Draft, was named the 15th-best prospect in the Florida State League by Baseball America and was selected as the Florida State League's Most Valuable Pitcher.

The Sherry Robertson Award, named in honor of the Twins' first farm director, was established in 1970 to recognize the Twins top minor league performer each season. Beginning in 2002, the award began recognizing the Twins' Minor League Player of the Year while the Jim Rantz Award, named after the current Twins' minor league director, was created to recognize the Twins' Minor League Pitcher of the Year.

HARMON KILLEBREW 3

One of the greatest home run hitters of all time, Harmon Killebrew will forever be remembered by Twins fans as the 'Killer' for his prolific clouts. A member of the Twins from their inaugural Minnesota season in 1961, Killebrew hit 573 career home runs, 475 of them in his 14 seasons with the Twins, to place him 8th on the all-time home run list and second only to Babe Ruth in American League history. He hit over 40 home runs on eight occasions and 30-or-more 10 times while driving in 100-plus runs nine times.

Killebrew was the American League's Most Valuable Player in 1969 when he hit 49 home runs with an amazing 140 rbi and 145 walks, all team records that still stand. He was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame in 1984, the first Twin to receive that honor. He had his number 3 formally retired May 4, 1975, was selected to the Twins' 25th Anniversary Team in 1986 and 40th Season Anniversary All-Time Team in 2000 and was inducted into the Twins Hall of Fame on August 12, 2000.

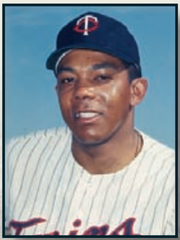

ROD CAREW 29

No Twins fan will ever forget the graceful power of Rod Carew's hitting stroke. Nor will any baseball enthusiast ever forget the summer of 1977 when he made his determined run at the untouchable .400 mark, because, just as Killebrew embodied the power of the game, Carew represented its finesse. He was a career .328 hitter in his 19 major league seasons and was the winner of seven American League batting titles, all during his twelve years with Minnesota. Carew hit .300 or better 15 consecutive seasons and finished his career with 3,053 hits, which places him 22nd among the all-time hit leaders and makes him one of only 26 players to collect 3000 or more career hits.

Carew, who won his only American League Most Valuable Player award in 1977 when he finished with a .388 average, was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame on the first ballot in 1991. He had his number 29 retired July 19, 1987, was selected to the Twins' 25th Anniversary Team in 1986 and 40th Season Anniversary All-Time Team in 2000 and was inducted into the Twins Hall of Fame on August 12, 2000.

TONY OLIVA 6

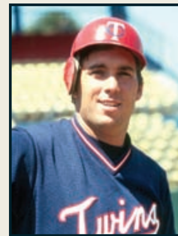

Pedro 'Tony' Oliva Jr., or 'Tony-O' to those who followed his 24-year career as a Twins' player and coach, was a man who seemed to excel in all aspects of the game. He could hit for power and average, run, field and throw, and his versatility made him one of the most feared hitters of his day.

Tony-O collected 1,917 hits and retired with a .304 career average. He is the only player to win batting titles in his first two seasons and was the winner of three in his 15-year career, which still stands as the club's longevity mark. His prowess as a hitter was demonstrated in the fact that he led the league in hits five times, and his 220 career home runs rank third all-time among Twins. If not for knee problems which cut his career short, Oliva would have been a certain choice for the Hall of Fame.

Oliva, the 1964 American League Rookie of the Year, began his coaching career in 1976. He now works as a hitting instructor in the Twins' minor league system and scouts for the club. He had his number 6 retired July 14, 1991, and was selected to the Twins' 25th Anniversary Team in 1986 and 40th Season Anniversary All-Time Team in 2000. He was inducted into the Twins Hall of Fame on August 12, 2000.

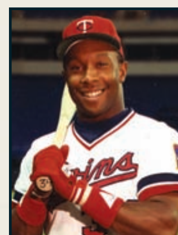

KENT HRBEK 14

Kent Hrbek grew up in the shadows of old Metropolitan Stadium in Bloomington and was destined to become a Minnesota Twin. The big kid, who played the game as hard as anyone, had more fun than most and treated Twins fans to much excitement from the day he donned a Twins uniform. From the time he homered in the 12th inning at Yankee Stadium to give the Twins a win on August 24, 1981, until the last game of his career, August 10, 1994, when he came up with the bases loaded three times against Boston as the fans were on their feet every at-bat.

Hrbek, who was runner-up to Cal Ripken for American League Rookie of the Year in 1982, made his only All-Star appearance that season. He was most appreciated by his teammates and Twins' fans for his upper-deck power and agility and for being one of the best ever to play first base in the majors. He is among club leaders in nearly every offensive category, but may be best remembered for his Game Six grand slam in the 1987 World Series, or for his tag of Atlanta's Ron Gant in Game Two of the 1991 World Series. He had his number 14 formally retired August 13, 1995 and selected to the Twins' 40th Season Anniversary All-Time Team in 2000. He was inducted into the Twins Hall of Fame on August 12, 2000 and selected to the All-Metrodome team in 2009.

KIRBY PUCKETT 34

Considered by most to be the greatest Twin ever, 'Puck' was baseball's jewel for 12 incredible seasons. His story was about being a hero from day one when he became the ninth player in history to collect 4 hits in his first game, May 8, 1984 at California. The dramatic entrance proved to be just the first of many heroic performances leading up to his most shining moment on October 26, 1991, during Game Six of the World Series versus Atlanta. He went 3 for 4, made a leaping catch off the plexiglass robbing Ron Gant of a sure extra-base hit and became the ninth player to end a World Series with a home run on the final pitch, off Charlie Leibrandt, in the 11th inning to force a seventh game.

The 10-time All-Star, 6-time Gold Glove Award winner and 5-time Silver Slugger Award winner had his career cut short when he awoke with blurred vision caused by glaucoma on the morning of March 28, 1996. He was later forced to announce his retirement due to irreversible damage to the retina in his right eye on July 12. He retired as the Twins' all-time leader in hits (2,304), doubles (414), total bases (3,453), at-bats (7,244) and runs (1,071).

Besides his endless on-the-field accomplishments, Puckett is also one of the game's greatest community leaders and was given Major League Baseball's Roberto Clemente Man of the Year Award in 1996. He was elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame on the first ballot in 2001, becoming the third-youngest living electee in baseball history (behind Sandy Koufax and Lou Gehrig). He had his number 34 formally retired May 25, 1997, and was selected to the Twins' 40th Season Anniversary All-Time Team in 2000. He was inducted into the Twins Hall of Fame on August 12, 2000 and was selected to the All-Metrodome team in 2009.

JACKIE ROBINSON

Jackie Robinson broke baseball's color barrier when Branch Rickey brought him up to the Brooklyn Dodgers in 1947. He brought a dynamic style of play to the game and terrorized the base paths. Robinson also proved to be an excellent hitter and a superb defensive infielder. He was voted the National League MVP in 1949 when he hit a league-leading .342 and drove in 124 runs. He batted .311 in his 10-year career and set several fielding records for second basemen.

In conjunction with the 50th anniversary celebration of Robinson breaking baseball's color barrier, Commissioner Bud Selig announced on April 15, 1997 at Shea Stadium that Major League Baseball will retire his uniform number 42 in perpetuity. The Minnestota Twins officially retired his number on May 23, 1997.

MINNESOTA TWINS HALL OF FAME

The Minnesota Twins Hall of Fame, which honors players, coaches and off-field personnel who have contributed to the organization's growth and success since the Twin Cities broke into the major leagues in 1961, was created as part of the club's 40th Season Celebration in 2000.

The inaugural class of Twins Hall of Famers, inducted on August 12, 2000, included Harmon Killebrew, Rod Carew, Tony Oliva, Kent Hrbek, Kirby Puckett and Calvin Griffith. The 2001 class included Herb Carneal and Jim Kaat while Bert Blyleven and Tom Kelly were inducted in 2002. Bob Allison and Bob Casey were inductees for 2003, Earl Battey was honored in 2004, Carl Pohlad and Frank Viola in 2005, Zoilo Versalles in 2006, Gary Gaetti and Jim Rantz in 2007, Rick Aguilera in 2008, Brad Radke and George Brophy in 2009 and Greg Gagne in 2010.

At right is the criteria for the Minnesota Twins Hall of Fame.

Player – Service time of three seasons and a two-year waiting period following retirement from Major League Baseball. Voting is conducted by a 55-member committee, which includes the fan vote as one "member". The highest vote getter is elected, with a second candidate gaining election if they also receive 75% of the vote. No more than two players will be elected per year.

Non-Player – Will be elected in odd-numbered years by a 17-member veterans committee consisting of all living Twins Hall of Fame members, Twins front office personnel, and local Twins historians. Those eligible to be voted into the Twins Hall of Fame via the Veterans Committee balloting include owners, managers, coaches, scouts, broadcasters, media and front office personnel. The highest vote getter is elected, with a second candidate gaining election if they also receive 75% of the vote.

HERB CARNEAL

RADIO BROADCASTER, 1962-2006

The dean of American League radio broadcasters, Carneal was a broadcaster of Twins' games for 44 years. He was the 1996 recipient of the Ford C. Frick Award, the highest honor given to a baseball broadcaster, which is presented annually to broadcasters who make major contributions to baseball and its fans.

Hired away from the Baltimore Orioles in 1961 where he was part of the play-by-play team for five years, Carneal was behind the microphone for all but the first of the Twins' first 45 seasons. He passed away on April 1, 2007.

JIM KAAT

LEFTHANDED PITCHER, 1961-73

Kaat spent 13 of his 25 major league seasons with the Twins, and won 10 or more games for the Twins in every season except his first (1961), when he won nine games. Kaat's best season in his career came in 1966 when he was selected to his second of three career All-Star appearances ('62 and '75). He finished the season 25-13 with a 2.75 ERA, leading the league in games started, wins, innings pitched and complete games. Kaat was also known for his outstanding defense as he won 16 consecutive Rawlings Gold Gloves from 1962-77.

Kaat pitched in the postseason in two separate years for the Twins, the 1965 World Series and the 1970 American League Championship Series. He is the Twins All-Time leader in wins (189), games started (422) and innings pitched (2959.1) and is second in complete games (133), shutouts (23) and strikeouts (1824). He is also fifth on Major League Baseball's All-Time list in strikeouts (3701). Blyleven along with Jim Perry and Camilo Pascual were selected righthanded pitchers on the Twins' 40th Season Anniversary All-Time Team in 2000.

TOM KELLY

MANAGER, 1986-2001

"TK" took over the managerial duties for the Twins on September 12, 1986. In his first full season (1987) as the skipper, he led the Twins to their first World Series Championship. It was the first time in major league history that a team went from last place one season to World Champions the next.

Kelly had a managerial record of 1140-1244, which places him first on the Twins' All-Time list in wins and games managed. At the time of his retirement after the 2001 season, Kelly was the longest tenured manager/coach in all of major sports. CLASS OF 2005

CARL R. POHLAD

OWNER, 1984-2009

With the franchise facing a possible move out of state, Pohlad purchased the Twins in 1984. He was motivated by a sense of community responsibility and a feeling that major league sports, particularly baseball, are important assets that contribute to the quality of life in the community.

Pohlad enjoyed great success upon taking ownership of the Twins by providing leadership that resulted in two World Series Championships in 1987 and '91 and back-to-back-to-back American League Central Division Championships from 2002-04.

The on-field success of the franchise was largely due to Pohlad's ability to build and manage an exceptional baseball organization with a strong emphasis on player development. In addition, the Pohlad family has given millions of dollars and countless hours of their time back to the community and region through programs in the Twins Community Fund and the Carl and Eloise Pohlad Family Foundation.

Brophy was an original member of the Twins organization in 1961. When the Twins replaced the Class AAA Minneapolis Millers and the St. Paul Saints as the featured team in Minnesota in 1961, Brophy, who was the Millers general manager, went to work for Sherrod Robertson in the minor league department. After Robertson's death in 1969, Brophy was named the Twins Vice President in October of 1970 and oversaw the Minor League Farm System and Scouting departments. Brophy held the position until 1985 when health problems triggered an early retirement from the Twins organization. Brophy's duties included full administration of the minor league departments, including the working relationships with the Twins minor league affiliates. He was responsible for player moves at the minor league level and for the development of young talent for the Major League club. Brophy also handled contract negotiations with minor league players. In 1984, he was named the Topps' Long Meritorious Service Award winner. Brophy, who also served as a special assignment scout for the Houston Astros before he retired in 1996, passed away in 1998 at the age of 72 from complications stemming from aplastic anemia.

MINNESOTA BASEBALL HISTORY

By Stew Thornley

The roots of baseball in Minnesota are part of the post-Civil War baseball boom in America. The area's earliest teams were amateur nines, representing cities of all sizes throughout the state, a few of them even organized before the Civil War.

1884 Minneapolis Team

Professionalism crept into Minnesota baseball throughout the 1870s. In 1884, a fully professional minor league, the Northwestern League, had teams in Minneapolis, St. Paul, Stillwater, and Winona. Most of the clubs were on shaky financial ground and disbanded during the season. Eventually, only St. Paul and Milwaukee remained. The two survivors finished their seasons by transferring to the Union Association, a major league that was in its only season of operation. By playing nine games in the Union Association, all on the road, St. Paul ended up with the distinction of being Minnesota's first major league team.

Nicollet Park

Minnesota was without professional baseball in 1885, but Minneapolis and St. Paul came back with teams in various leagues over the next decade, and both were a key part of the Western League in the 1890s, an organization that had some lofty aims. The league's creator, a Cincinnati sportswriter named Ban Johnson, hoped to eventually transform the Western League into a major league to challenge the established National League.

The Minneapolis Millers then played in a tiny downtown ballpark called Athletic Park, which was so small that the Millers produced some impressive offensive numbers while playing there. The team's slugger, Perry "Moose" Werden, hit 42 home runs in 1894 and topped that with 45 the following year, establishing a professional single-season home run record that stood until Babe Ruth took up the business. The Millers won the city's first professional baseball championship when they captured the Western League flag in 1896, a season that also marked the end of Athletic Park and the beginning of Nicollet Park, a structure that seemed spacious in contrast to its predecessor but one that would eventually also be considered a great park for hitters.

St. Paul Saints circa 1905

Meanwhile, St. Paul got a team in the Western League when Charles Comiskey, a confidant and close friend at the time of Ban Johnson, purchased the Western League's Sioux City franchise and moved it to St. Paul for the 1895 season. Comiskey owned and managed the Saints, who played in a small ballpark off University Avenue and Dale Street before moving a mile west to Lexington Park in 1897. Three years later, Comiskey moved the team again, this time taking it to Chicago, where it became (and still exists as) the White Sox.

The Millers lasted a year longer than the Saints but were among four teams dropped from the league when Johnson finally reached his goal, turning the Western League (by this time renamed the American League) into a major league in 1901.

Both the Minneapolis Millers and St. Paul Saints became charter members in a new minor league, the American Association, that began in 1902. Managed by Mike Kelley, who also played first base in an infield that included future Hall-of-Famer Miller Huggins at second, St. Paul got off to a good start, winning pennants in two of its first three years in the Association.

The Millers had a rockier beginning in the Association, finishing seventh (out of eight teams) their first two years. But the Minneapolis club came alive in 1910. Under a new manager, Pongo Joe Cantillon, the Millers rattled off three consecutive American Association championships.

Minneapolis and St. Paul played in the American Association for 59 seasons. The Millers ended up with the best winning percentage of all the teams to play in the league over that period. The Saints had the second-best record. In addition, the Minnesota teams shared the Association record with nine pennants apiece.

The 1920 championship for St. Paul was especially notable. Led by the pitching of 27-game winner Charley "Sea Lion" Hall and the offensive contributions of players like Joe "Goldie" Rapp, Lee Dressen, and Joe Riggert, the Saints won 115 games and produced a winning percentage of .701, Association records that were never matched. Unfortunately, the Saints lost that year to the Baltimore Orioles in the Junior World Series, a post-season matchup of the champions of the American Association and International League that had been played off and on since 1904.

Minneapolis made its first appearance in the Junior World Series in 1932. Mike Kelley, who had been with the Saints when the Association began, by this time owned the Millers. Kelley is remembered for his "retooling factory"—buying aging major leaguers, then selling them back to the majors after they had padded their averages in cozy Nicollet Park. But he also proved to be a shrewd judge of young talent. Kelley assembled a fencecracking crew of greenhorns and veterans, along with an ancient but crafty pitching staff, that won three Association championships in the 1930s.

The Millers lost the 1932 Junior World Series to the Newark Bears, a powerful farm club of the New York Yankees, but they won pennants again in 1934 and 1935. The leader of the Millers was Joe "Unser Choe" Hauser, a strong lefthanded hitter who took advantage of the short distance down the right-field foul line at Nicollet Park. In five seasons in Minneapolis, Hauser connected for 202 home runs, an average of better than 40 a year. Hauser was at his best in 1933 when he blasted 69 home runs, setting a professional record. Three years before, Hauser had hit 63 home runs with Baltimore in the International League and was the only player in organized baseball history to twice hit more than 60 in a season until Mark McGwire and Sammy Sosa matched the feat in the late 1990s.

While the Millers and Saints each won many Association titles, they battled for the league championship only once, in 1915, with the Millers coming out on top by a game-and-a-half. But no matter where the teams were in the standings, the Millers and Saints ignited the passions of the local partisans with their 22 inter-city games every year.

Lexington Park

Interest peaked each season with the holiday double-headers at Lexington Park in St. Paul and Nicollet Park in Minneapolis; a morning game at one park followed by a streetcar ride across the river for the afternoon game in the other was the Twin Cities' primary entertainment on Decoration Day, the Fourth of July, and Labor Day.

Ab Wright of the Millers saved his biggest 1940 fireworks for the morning game on Independence Day. En route to winning the American Association Triple Crown that season, Wright belted four home runs and a triple against the Saints for 19 total bases, a league record never equaled.

1884 Minneapolis Team

And the explosions heard on the Fourth of July in 1929 were from a Nicollet Park brawl between the rivals, described by one writer as "the most vicious affair ever witnessed at Nicollet" and one that "required fully a dozen policemen to quell the disturbance." Millers reserve infielder Sammy Bohne came out of the coaching box to land some of the hardest punches, and the next day the headline over Halsey Hall's story in the Minneapolis Journal read, "Sammy Bohne Doesn't Play, But Gets More Hits Than Those Who Do."

Hostilities even extended into the stands at times. In 1959 Minneapolis manager Gene Mauch scaled the railing at Midway Stadium in St. Paul to confront a fan whose remarks Mauch deemed "a bit too personal." In 1911, Millers' skipper Joe Cantillon took a bat with him to silence a heckler in the box seats at Lexington Park.

Minneapolis and St. Paul professional teams had their share of great players. Sixteen members of the Baseball Hall of Fame once played for and/or managed Minneapolis while St. Paul had five players and one manager who are now enshrined in Cooperstown.

St. Paul's list of Hall of Famers includes Miller Huggins, Lefty Gomez, Walter Alston, Duke Snider, and Roy Campanella, who became the first black player in the American Association in 1948.

For Minneapolis, the honor roll includes Rube Waddell, one of the top southpaws in baseball in the first part of the 20th century, who pitched for the Millers in the American Association in 1911 and 1912 (as well as briefly in 1913 for the Minneapolis team in the Northern League). Another Minneapolis great was Ted Williams, who became the first player to win the American Association triple crown in 1938 before going on to his Hall of Fame career with the Red Sox. The man who replaced Williams in the Boston outfield 22 years later, Carl Yastrzemski, also made Minneapolis his last stop in the minors en route to the Red Sox.

In 1951, the Millers had three players who are now in the Hall of Fame—Hoyt Wilhelm, Ray Dandridge, and Willie Mays. Wilhelm pitched two seasons for Minneapolis, and Dandridge—the Millers' first black player—played with the team from 1949 to 1952 and was the Association's Most Valuable Player in 1950. For Mays, though, the stay in Minneapolis was brief. The Millers' new centerfielder was hitting .477 and tearing up the American Association in early 1951 when he was suddenly taken away, called up to the New York Giants after only 35 games with the Millers.

New York had purchased the Millers—the last of the independently owned teams in the Association—from Mike Kelley in 1946. By this time, the Saints were a farm team of the Brooklyn Dodgers. The parent clubs gave a Big Apple flavor to the Minneapolis-St. Paul rivalry, but it also marked a turning point in the operation of the Twin Cities' minor league teams. In the past, players were locally controlled and often returned to the same team year after year, affording fans an opportunity to build a strong sense of loyalty and identification with the players. Better than any other event, the abrupt departure of Mays in May of 1951 signaled this change in how minor league teams were operated.

The Millers and Saints carried on for several more years. St. Paul didn't win any more pennants, but Minneapolis had a big season in 1955 when it won the American Association pennant and went on to win its first Junior Series championship, beating the Rochester Red Wings, 4 games to 3. Al Worthington, later a mainstay in the Minnesota Twins bullpen, won three games in the Junior World Series and also saved the seventh and decisive contest, a game which also marked the end of 60-year-old Nicollet Park.

The Millers, playing in Metropolitan Stadium in suburban Bloomington, ended up in two more Junior Series, both under the leadership of player-manager Gene Mauch. In 1958, Minneapolis swept the Montreal Royals. The following year, the Millers lost in seven games to the Havana Sugar Kings in a series that was tense, not just because of the closeness of the games, but also because of the political atmosphere. The final five games were played in Havana, and new Cuban premier Fidel Castro was on hand for all of them.

The end for the Millers and Saints came after the 1960 season. That October, Calvin Griffith announced he was moving his Washington Senators to Minnesota, where they would become the Twins. A new era of major league baseball was about to begin, and a rich tradition of minor league ball was on its way out.

During this period, the Millers and Saints were not the only teams providing outstanding baseball to Minnesotans. Another professional organization, the Northern League, had a number of Minnesota teams in its ranks before finally folding in 1971. Through the years, 14 Minnesota cities were represented in the league, including the St. Cloud Rox, Duluth Dukes, Crookston Pirates, and Fargo-Moorhead Twins. In 1913 Minneapolis and St. Paul even had franchises in the league at the same time that each city had a team in the American Association. The Northern League produced its share of stars who went on to greatness in the majors, including Lou Brock, Hank Aaron, Gaylord Perry, Jim Palmer, Orlando Cepeda, Jim Perry, Vada Pinson, Joe Torre, Matty Alou, and Roger Maris.

1960 Minneapolis Millers

One of the best-remembered incidents in Northern League history is an unfortunate event that occurred off the field. In July of 1948, while on its way from Eau Claire to St. Cloud, the Duluth Dukes team bus was involved in a crash that killed five team members and injured 13 others. The bus collided with a truck on Highway 36 north of St. Paul. Duluth manager George Treadwell—who was driving the bus—was killed, as was the truck driver. Among the players injured was Elmer "Red" Schoendienst, brother of the St. Louis Cardinals' Red Schoendienst. The Dukes were able to continue as their roster was stocked with new players from the Cardinals organization (the Dukes had a working agreement with St. Louis) and from other organized baseball teams.

1944 Minneapolis Millerettes

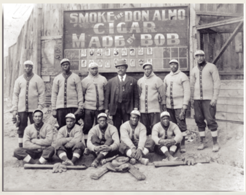

Another pro team was the Minneapolis Millerettes, who played in 1944 in the All-American Girls Professional Baseball League, which became the subject of the 1992 movie "A League of Their Own."

The Millerettes were led by right-fielder Helen Callaghan, who hit .287 with three home runs in 111 games. Baseball ran in the Callaghan family. Callaghan's sister, Margaret, was also a star in the league, and Helen's son, Casey Candaele, later played with the Montreal Expos, Houston Astros, and Cleveland Indians.

Callaghan wasn't the only Millerette with a relative in the major leagues. The Minneapolis pitching rotation included Annabelle Lee, the aunt of Bill "Spaceman" Lee, who pitched with the Expos and Boston Red Sox in the 1970s and 1980s. In fact, Lee credits his aunt with teaching him how to pitch.

The Millerettes played respectable baseball in the season's early weeks, but a slump that followed dropped them to the cellar, where they stayed, and they closed out the first half of the season with a dismal record of 23-36. Things didn't get any better in the second half. Few fans were turning out to Nicollet Park to see the Millerettes, and the other teams began complaining of the long road trips to Minneapolis to play before such small crowds. As a result, in late July, the remainder of the Millerettes' home games were switched to other cities and the team, which became known as the Orphans, was forced to play the rest of the season on the road. The team moved to Fort Wayne for the 1945 season.

No official Negro League teams ever represented a Minnesota city, but the state did have some all-black teams in the early part of the century, the most notable being the St. Paul Gophers and Minneapolis Keystones. Bobby Marshall—who had competed in baseball, track, and football at the University of Minnesota—played for both the Keystones and Gophers. Marshall was a key member of the 1909 St. Paul Gophers team that defeated the Chicago Leland Giants for the unofficial championship of Negro baseball. The Leland Giants were led by Andrew "Rube" Foster, the great pitcher who later founded the organized Negro Leagues. Although he pitched against the Gophers in the 1909 championship series, Foster also pitched for the Gophers on several occasions. Foster was brought in—essentially as a "ringer," according to local historian Fred Buckland—to pitch for the Gophers in key games over the years.

St. Paul Colored Gophers

Semi-professional leagues also provided great entertainment for some smaller towns. The Southern Minnesota League was often considered to be as strong as most Single-A professional leagues and even as strong as some Double-A leagues.

The "Southern Minny" lasted from 1912 until the early sixties, playing games on Tuesdays, Thursdays, and Sundays from May through September of each year. Over thirty cities covering southern Minnesota and northern Iowa were represented in the league. Teams included the Mankato Merchants, Faribault Lakers, Winona Chiefs, Austin Packers, Owatonna Aces, and Fairmont Martins.

Bill "Moose" Skowron played for Austin in 1950. He intended to return that fall to Purdue University, where he played football and baseball. But Skowron did so well with the Packers that he was scouted and signed by the New York Yankees. He went on to hit 211 home runs in 14 major league seasons and played in seven World Series.

Johnny Blanchard and Howie Schultz—stars from Minneapolis and St. Paul, respectively—also played in the Southern Minny and had credible major league careers. Another major leaguer who made a stop in the Southern Minny was Sam Jones, who pitched for Rochester and threw two no-hitters in 1949, including one in the playoffs. Five years later, "Toothpick" Sam became the first black to hurl a no-hitter in the major-leagues.

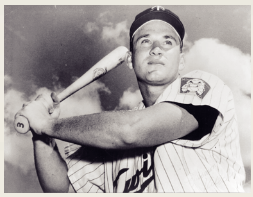

Minnesota semi-professional leagues even provided a haven for exiles. Swede Risberg had been banned from organized baseball for his part in the 1919 Black Sox scandal, but he found a home with the Rochester Royals in the 1920s.

Amateur baseball remains a proud tradition in many small towns in Minnesota to this day. In addition, the Minnesota Gophers continue to produce strong teams year after year. Under legendary coach Dick Siebert, who led the Gophers from 1948 to 1978, the Gophers won three national championships in 1956, 1960, and 1964.

Allison, Ermer, Killebrew and Kaat

But since 1961, the baseball spotlight in Minnesota has focused mainly on the major league game. Minnesotans were excited about the arrival of the Twins, even though the team, through most of its years in Washington, had not been a great one. But there were stars to get excited about, such as pitchers Camilo Pascual and Jim Kaat and the fearsome batting tandem of Bob Allison and Harmon Killebrew. With the Senators, Allison had been the American League's Rookie of the Year in 1959. That same season, Killebrew hit 42 home runs.

Harmon Killebrew

The Killer connected for 46 home runs in 1961, and topped those totals in the ensuing years. Playing in Met Stadium, the Twins won only 70 games and lost 90 in their first season in Minnesota, but they quickly moved up in the standings. With Sam Mele as manager, the Twins finished second to the mighty New York Yankees in 1962. Killebrew led the league with 48 home runs, but the highlight of the season came on Sunday, August 26 when southpaw Jack Kralick pitched a no-hitter against the Kansas City Athletics, coming within two outs of a perfect game

The Twins had another good year in 1963, but it was followed by a setback the following season. Harmon Killebrew hit 49 home runs in 1964, and Tony Oliva led the American League in batting average and was named the league's Rookie of the Year. However, the Twins dropped to a tie for sixth place. It was disappointing, but the team bounced back.

The world came to Minnesota in 1965. The Twins hosted the All-Star Game in July and an even bigger event in October as they ended the long dynasty of the New York Yankees by winning the American League pennant.

Oliva & Versalles

Although Killebrew's home run total dropped to 25 as a result of an injury that caused him to miss several weeks, others picked up the slack that season. Jim "Mudcat" Grant won 21 games, Tony Oliva won the batting title again, and shortstop Zoilo Versalles—who hit .273 with 19 home runs out of the leadoff spot—was named the American League Most Valuable Player.

The Twins' opponents in the World Series were the Los Angeles Dodgers, who had a superb pitching staff, led by Don Drysdale and Sandy Koufax. But the Twins surprised the Dodgers by defeating Drysdale and then Koufax in the first two games of the series. The Dodgers came back with three wins in a row. In the sixth game, Mudcat Grant kept the Twins alive. He pitched a six-hitter and also hit a three-run homer, leading the Twins to a 5-1 win and forcing a seventh game. However, Sandy Koufax was too much for Minnesota in the finale. He pitched a three-hit shutout and beat the Twins, 2-0, to win the World Series for Los Angeles.

The Twins finished second the next year and then found themselves in a tremendous pennant race in 1967, along with the Chicago White Sox, Detroit Tigers, and Boston Red Sox. Dean Chance, a 20-game winner that season, added to the excitement in August. At Metropolitan Stadium on August 6th, Chance pitched a rain-shortened, five-inning perfect game against Boston. Three weeks later, he pitched another no-hitter, against Cleveland.

Detroit, Minnesota, and Boston battled down to the final weekend, and the Twins finished the regular-season with a two-game series in Boston. One win would eliminate the Red Sox and two would clinch at least a tie with Detroit, if not the pennant. However, Boston won both games and it was the Red Sox, not the Twins, who went to the World Series.

After a seventh-place finish in 1968, the Twins were primed for a good year in 1969. Both leagues had expanded to 12 teams and were split into divisions. The Twins had a new manager, Billy Martin, and the team exemplified their skipper's fiery nature on the field. Cesar Tovar set a team record with 45 stolen bases while Rod Carew stole 19, including seven steals of home, and also won the batting title with a .332 average. Tony Oliva had a great season, knocking in more than 100 runs for the first time in his career. On the mound, Jim Perry and Dave Boswell both won 20 games. But the season belonged to Harmon Killebrew, who hit 49 home runs and drove in 140, leading the majors in both categories. Killebrew was named the American League Most Valuable Player.

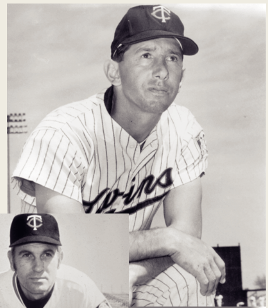

The Twins were good, but they went up against an even better team, the Baltimore Orioles, in the American League playoffs. The Orioles swept the playoff series to eliminate the Twins.

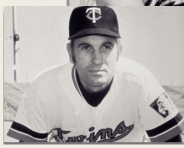

The Twins fired Billy Martin as manager after the 1969 season even though Martin had led the team to first place in the Western Division. Bill Rigney was the new manager, and the Twins won the West again in 1970. Killebrew had another big year, homering 41 times. Jim Perry won 24 games to become the first Minnesota pitcher to win the Cy Young Award. Rookie Bert Blyleven, still a teenager, came up from the minors and won 10 games.

But once again, the Twins couldn't handle Baltimore in the playoffs and were swept for the second straight year.

The first decade of the Twins had some great moments, but the next decade was more challenging.

Tony Oliva won his third batting title in 1971, but he suffered a serious knee injury during the year and was never the same player again. In August of 1971, Killebrew hit the 500th home run of his career. He finished the season with 119 runs batted in (RBIs), but his home run total dropped to 28. As a team, the Twins dropped even more. They finished in fifth place, 25½ games out of first. For the first time in Minnesota, the Twins did not top the million mark in attendance.

Billy Martin

Jim Perry

It was the beginning of a dry spell for the Twins. They still had some fine players, especially Rod Carew, who began a string of four straight batting titles starting in 1972. However, the team still had trouble winning more games than it lost during those years.

Under a new manager, Gene Mauch, in 1976, the Twins rose to third place and finished just five games out of first. This set the stage for an exciting year in 1977, one that brought the fans swarming back to Met Stadium. With a powerful batch of hitters, the team was known as the "Lumber Company." Larry Hisle led the American League in runs batted in, Lyman Bostock hit .336 and scored 104 runs, and Glenn Adams did some heavy hitting that included setting a Twins record by driving in eight runs in a game in late June.

Tony Oliva

However, Adams was upstaged by Rod Carew in that game, one of the most memorable in Twins history. A crowd of more than 46,000 filled Met Stadium to see the Twins battle the Chicago White Sox for the top spot in the Western Division. Carew scored five runs and drove in six as the Twins outslugged Chicago, 19-12, to move past the Sox into first place. Carew also had four hits and raised his average to .403 for the season.

Carew kept his average up for most of the year. He made a run at becoming the first player since Ted Williams in 1941 to hit .400 in a season. Carew didn't make it, but he finished with a batting average of .388, the best in the majors in 20 years.

Rod Carew

On the mound, Dave Goltz, a strong righthander and a Minnesota native, won 20 games. Another Minnesota-born pitcher, Tom Johnson, won 16, all in relief. The excitement was back at the Met, and the Twins drew more than a million fans for the first time since 1970. The team stayed in the pennant hunt before tailing off in the final month of the season.

Even more disturbing than the late swoon was the prospect of the Twins losing some of their stars. The era of free agency had arrived, and Calvin Griffith didn't have enough money to compete with other owners in the open market.

Hisle and Bostock, two of the team's big guns, signed with other teams for the 1978 season. Without them, the offense sputtered. Rod Carew won his seventh American League batting title in 1978, but it looked like he might be on his way out, too. Rather than risk losing him to free agency, Griffith traded Carew to the California Angels before the 1979 season. The Lumber Company had been dismantled.

The Twins still fought hard in 1979 and stayed in the race for the West Division title until the final week of the season. After that, they dropped back again and played before small crowds in the final two years of Met Stadium.

While the team floundered in 1980 and 1981, a new domed stadium was being built on the edge of downtown Minneapolis. And, even though the 1981 season was largely a dismal one, some newcomers provided a boost near the end of the year.

Kent Hrbek, who grew up close to Met Stadium, joined the team in August. He played in his first game at Yankee Stadium and won it for the Twins with a home run in the 12th inning. Over the next month, two more players broke in with a bang. Tim Laudner and Gary Gaetti both homered in their first games.

The end of an era came on a drizzly afternoon on the final day of September. The Twins lost to the Kansas City Royals in the final baseball game for Met Stadium.

The Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome opened in downtown Minneapolis in 1982. The first game—an exhibition contest—took place on a cold Saturday night in early April. Kent Hrbek hit the first two home runs in the new stadium. A few days later, Dave Engle hit the Metrodome's first regular-season home run as the Twins opened with a loss to the Seattle Mariners.

The Minnesota lineup was loaded with young players, with Kent Hrbek leading the way. He had a 23-game hitting streak that extended into May. That same month, the Twins acquired a young slugger, Tom Brunansky, in a trade. Gaetti and Laudner also contributed, along with a new pitcher, Frank Viola.

Another star emerged in 1984. Kirby Puckett joined the Twins in May and got four hits in his first game. Puckett immediately became a fan favorite with his hustle and enthusiastic style of play.

The 1984 season was also marked by a change in ownership. Carl Pohlad purchased the team from Calvin Griffith. Soon after that, the Twins caught fire and moved to the top of the West Division standings. They were still in first place with only a week left in the season, but they lost their final six games and finished in a tie for second place.

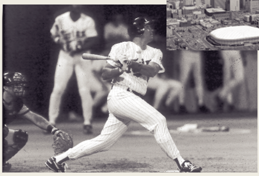

Carl Pohlad & Calvin Griffith

A couple of disappointing years followed, but the Twins put together an unforgettable season in 1987.

Tom Kelly was in his first full season as manager. Other new faces included relief ace Jeff Reardon and hardnosed outfielder Dan Gladden. Stalwarts like Hrbek, Puckett, Gaetti, and Brunansky joined the newcomers in helping the Twins to the top in 1987.

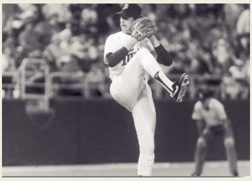

Kent Hrbek

The Twins won the West Division and then upset the Detroit Tigers in the League Championship Series, winning in five games. The Twins were underdogs again in the World Series, but they pulled off another upset, defeating the St. Louis Cardinals, 4 games to 3, to win their first World Championship in baseball. In doing so, the Twins became the state's first major league team to win an overall championship since the Minneapolis Lakers in 1954.

Minnesota didn't repeat in 1988, but they did have the American League's best pitcher in Frank Viola, who won 24 games and received the Cy Young Award.

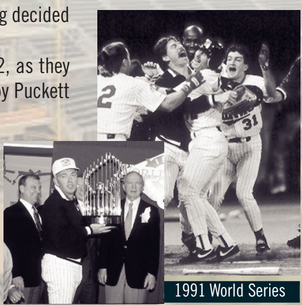

Frank Viola

The Twins dropped to last place in 1990 but came back with another big season. After a slow start in 1991, the Twins put together a 15-game winning streak that put them into first place in June. Scott Erickson won 20 games, including 12 in a row, and St. Paul native Jack Morris—in his only season with the Twins—added 18. Chuck Knoblauch played a steady second base and was named Rookie of the Year.

The Twins won the West Division by eight games and defeated the Toronto Blue Jays in the playoffs to advance to the World Series against the Atlanta Braves, another team that had finished last the previous year. It was one of the most memorable World Series ever, with three games—including the final two—being decided in extra innings.

The Twins were down, 3 games to 2, as they played Game 6 at the Metrodome. Kirby Puckett provided the heroics in this one. In the third, he leapt high against the fence in left-center to rob Ron Gant of an extra-base hit and snuff an Atlanta rally. Then, in the last of the 11th, Puckett led off with a home run to left-center to win the game for the Twins.

1991 World Series

The final game was just as exciting. Jack Morris was magnificent, but Atlanta righthander John Smoltz of the Braves was just as sharp. Neither team could score, and the game was scoreless as it went into extra innings, with Morris still on the mound for the Twins. Morris put down the Braves in the top of the 10th, and the Twins were finally able to bring across a run in the bottom of the inning. Gene Larkin's one-out single beyond a pulled-in outfield brought home Dan Gladden with the winning tally and gave the Twins their second World Series victory in five seasons.

The Twins finished second to the Oakland Athletics in the West Division in 1992, and then hit another period of hard times. While the team struggled through the rest of the 1990s, it still provided many highlights with the focus on individual performance.

Dave Winfield, who grew up playing baseball on the sandlots of St. Paul, came to the Twins in 1993 after many good years with San Diego, the New York Yankees, and California. In September of that season, Winfield got the 3,000th hit of his career. Eight years later, Winfield became the only Minnesota-born player besides Charles "Chief" Bender to be elected to the Baseball Hall of Fame.

In 1996, another St. Paul native, Paul Molitor, came home to Minnesota to finish out his career. He also got his 3,000th hit while playing for the Twins.

In between those milestones, another Twin achieved personal glory. In April of 1994, Scott Erickson pitched a no-hitter against Milwaukee. It was the first no-hitter in the history of the Metrodome, and the first for a Twins pitcher since 1967.

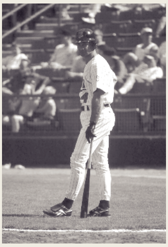

Among the highlights, though, was a sad event. An eye disease, glaucoma, brought a premature end to the career of Kirby Puckett in 1996. In 2001, Puckett—along with his former teammate, Dave Winfield—was elected to the Hall of Fame in his first year of eligibility.

There were other problems. Just as Calvin Griffith had been plagued by rising salaries in the 1970s, the Twins were by this time finding it difficult to compete for top players with some of the richer teams in the major leagues. Even so, the team developed a number of fine young players, such as Brad Radke. In 1997, the righthander won 20 games for Minnesota, including a stretch in which he won 12 consecutive starts.

The emphasis remained on young players over the next few years. One of them, Eric Milton, topped off the 1990s with a no-hitter against the Anaheim Angels in September of 1999. Other young players, like Doug Mientkiewicz, Cristian Guzman, Corey Koskie, Torii Hunter, Joe Mays, and Jacque Jones, stepped up in the coming years, and the results were soon seen.

The Twins got off to a great start in 2001, winning 14 of their first 17 games. They kept up the hot play, thanks to the hitting and fielding of Mientkiewicz and the pitching of Radke, Milton, and Mays, who gave the team some of the best starting pitching in the majors.

Paul Molitor

The Twins were in first place by five games at the All-Star break. However, injuries to key players like Guzman and Radke, slowed them down over the second half. The Twins still finished with 85 wins and in second place.

Minnesota dealt with even more challenges the next year. The threat of contraction made players and fans, as well as new manager Ron Gardenhire, wonder if there would even be a 2002 season for them. The Twins survived but they had to deal with significant injuries again. However, this time there was no stopping the Twins. Torii Hunter connected for 29 home runs, and for the second straight year, won a Gold Glove in center field. His most spectacular catch of the year came on a national stage, as he robbed Barry Bonds of a home run in the All-Star Game.

Puckett and Winfield

The Twins won 94 games but were underdogs in the opening round of the playoffs as they faced the Oakland Athletics, which had won 103 games. Oakland won two of the first three games, but the Twins won the next two to capture the series and advance to the American League Championship Series. The Twins won the first game but then dropped the next four and were eliminated by the Anaheim Angels, the team that went on to win the World Series.

2002 Minnesota Twins

The Twins made it two straight division titles in 2003, although there were times over the first half of the season when it didn't appear this would happen. In addition to the Chicago White Sox, the team expected to contend with the Twins, a young Kansas City team played well. The Twins started slowly, dropped as far as eight games out of first in April, battled back, but found themselves 7½ games out of first at the All-Star break. However, Shannon Stewart, acquired in a trade with Toronto, provided the offense with a spark over the last half of the season. Combined with stronger performances from the starting pitchers, Minnesota once again whittled away at the leaders. The comeback in the standings was completed after a strange come-from-behind win on September 3. Down 5-4 with two out and one on in the ninth against Anaheim, Stewart grounded a double to left. Dustan Mohr tried to score from first but the relay to the plate was well ahead of him. However, Mohr crashed into catcher Bengie Molina, knocking the ball loose, and scored the tying run. As the ball rolled up the first-base line, Stewart also came home to win the game. That night, the White Sox lost, and the Twins were tied for first.

2003 Division Series Game One

The Twins and White Sox remained tied as they split a four-game series in Chicago the following week. By the time the two teams met again, at the Metrodome, the Twins had a half-game lead, one they stretched to three-and-a-half games by sweeping the White Sox at home. Less than a week later, Minnesota clinched the Central Division title. In the opening round of the playoffs, the Twins won the first game, in New York, but then dropped the next three to the Yankees.

General manager Terry Ryan's program of building a strong minor-league system and a winning team at the major league level had paid off, opening the door to the next step of replenishing veterans and keeping the winning team together. Toward that end, Minnesota fans could look ahead to the emergence of catcher Joe Mauer, who was the first player taken in the 2001 draft, and others in the coming years.

Unfortunately, Mauer hurt his knee in the second game of the 2004 season and played only 35 games that year. However, other young players and newcomers made contributions. Joe Nathan, acquired in a trade with San Francisco, took over the closer role and saved 44 games while producing an earned-run average of 1.62. Justin Morneau became the team's regular first baseman and had 19 home runs in just 74 games.

The biggest story of the 2004 season was the emergence of lefthander Johan Santana, who was unbeatable over the final half of the season. Santana won his final 13 decisions to finish with a won-lost record of 20-6 and an ERA of 2.61. Named American League Pitcher of the Month in July, August, and September, Santana led the league with 265 strikeouts while walking only 54 batters in 228 innings. Following the season, he was unanimously selected as the recipient of the Cy Young Award in the American League. Santana became the first Twins pitcher since Camilo Pascual in 1963 to lead the league in strikeouts and only the third pitcher in Twins history to win the Cy Young Award.

The Twins won the Central Division title for the third straight year, and, for the second year in a row, faced the New York Yankees in the opening round of the playoffs. Santana pitched seven scoreless innings as Minnesota won the first game, 2-0. The Twins were on the verge of taking a two-game lead in the series as Torii Hunter put them ahead with a 12th-inning home run in the second game. However, Nathan, pitching his third inning of the game, was ineffective in the bottom of the inning as the Yankees scored twice to win the game. In the third game, in Minnesota, the Yankees won, 8-4, but the Twins, with Santana back on the mound, looked like they would win the fourth game and force a decisive fifth game back in New York. The Twins had a 5-1 lead after seven innings. The Yankees rallied in the eighth off Juan Rincon and had one run in with one out and two runners on base. Ruben Sierra then delivered the big blow for New York, a three-run homer to tie the game. In the top of the 11th, Alex Rodriguez doubled, stole third, and then scored the go-ahead run on a wild pitch, and the Yankees won the game, 6-5, and the series, three-games-to-one.

Johan Santana

In 2005, the Twins played well during the early part of the season. Unfortunately, the Chicago White Sox were playing even better. Chicago was the hottest team in baseball, but the Twins remained within striking distance through mid-June. The Twins finished the season in third place, behind Chicago and Cleveland, but they still had a winning record for the fifth straight year.

2006 MVP Justin Morneau

Johan Santana was outstanding again, leading the major leagues in strikeouts and finishing third in the balloting for the American League Cy Young Award.

A slow start in 2006 left the Twins as far as 12.5 games out of first and more than 10 games away from a wild-card spot. A ferocious final three-and-a-half months put the team back into contention. Johan Santana, again nearly unbeatable after the All-Star break, tied for the Major League lead in wins (19) and led the majors with a 2.77 earned run average and 245 strikeouts. He was rewarded with his second Cy Young Award in three seasons. Rookie Francisco Liriano was also spectacular, winning 12 of his first 14 decisions, before an elbow problem limited him to two starts over the final two months.

The Twins clinched a playoff spot in the final week of the regular season. They were tied for first with Detroit on the final day. The Twins won their game, then, along with their fans, hung around to watch the final inning of the Tigers game on the Metrodome scoreboard. When the Tigers lost in extra innings, the team and fans celebrated the Twins' fourth Central Division Championship in five years.

2009 AL MVP Joe Mauer

The Twins were eliminated in the playoffs by the Oakland Athletics, but memories lingered of the exciting finish of the regular season, as well as some outstanding individual performances. Joe Mauer, with two hits in the final game, became the first American League catcher to win a batting title, leading the majors with a .347 batting average. Justin Morneau had 34 home runs and 134 rbi, and became the fourth Twin to win the American League Most Valuable Player Award.

The following season, Morneau became the first Twins player in 20 years to hit at least 30 home runs in back-to-back seasons. There were other strong individual performances, including Johan Santana finishing second in the league in strikeouts. He had 17 of those in one game, setting a new club record, on August 19 vs. Texas. Combined with two strikeouts from Joe Nathan in the ninth inning, the Twins set a club record with 19 strikeouts in a game. Fewer than two weeks later, Scott Baker became only the second Twins pitcher to take a perfect game into the ninth inning. He finished with a one-hit shutout against Kansas City.

Following the 2007 season, the Twins traded Johan Santana to the New York Mets for four prospects. Young players, such as Alexi Casilla and Denard Span, contributed offensively and in the field while a young staff of starters filled the gap brought on by the departure of Santana. The veterans came through again, Joe Mauer finishing with a .328 batting average to lead the American League in that department for the second time. Justin Morneau had 129 runs batted in, second in the league. The Twins maintained a fierce battle with the Chicago White Sox for first place through much of the year, and the season came down to a tiebreaker playoff game in Chicago. Nick Blackburn pitched well, but gave up a seventh-inning homer to Jim Thome for the game's only run as the White Sox won 1-0 to end the Twins' season.

The Twins started the 2009 season without their All-Star catcher Joe Mauer, who missed the first month with a back injury. He returned to the lineup with a bang, hitting a home run in his first at-bat but the Twins played .500 ball for the majority of the season. Things looked bleak for the club when 2006 AL MVP Justin Morneau went down with a stress fracture in his back on September 13 but they responded by going 16-4 over their last 20 games to force a one-game playoff vs. the Detroit Tigers at the Metrodome for the Central Division Championship. The Twins won the thrilling, 12-inning tiebreaker vs. the Tigers to win their fifth division title in the last eight seasons. Michael Cuddyer hit a career-high 34 home runs including eight over the final 20 games and Joe Mauer won numerous awards including the batting title, Gold Glove, Silver Slugger and his first Most Valuable Player Award.

FRANCHISE RECORDS

The history of the Minnesota Twins franchise dates back to the year 1901 when, as the Washington Senators, they were born as one of the eight original franchises in the American League. For sixty years, the Senators played baseball in our nation's capital, winning one World Championship and three American League pennants, while adding Hall of Fame players like Walter Johnson, Sam Rice and Goose Goslin to the rich history of America's game.

In 1961, owner Calvin Griffith moved the Senators from Washington, DC, to Minnesota where a new chapter has been written, one more impressive than the first. In the 49 years since, the Minnesota Twins have won two World Championships, three American League pennants, and made 10 playoff appearances. It is here that players like Killebrew, Kaat, Carew, Blyleven, Hrbek, and Puckett have been able to weave their own names into history, not only for the franchise, but for the game.

The records and All-Time Top Ten Lists below recognize this history by including the statistics of the Washington Senators of 1901-1960, as their history is our history, and any franchise history without them would be incomplete.

CREDENTIALS

Credentials for accredited news media are available through an application at credentials.mlb.com. All requests must be made no later than six hours prior to game time. Daily credentials must be picked up at the Gate 29 press gate, which will be staffed five hours prior to night games and three hours prior to day games. Daily and season credentials will be issued only to working members of the media and must be displayed at all times while in Target Field. A photo ID and signature are required to pick up credentials. The press box is located on on the Club Level, while both clubhouses, interview room, press dining, and field access are located on the Service Level.

PRESS TICKETS

A limited number of media tickets may be available for select games, but must be requested no later than 24 hours prior. All tickets will be placed at the Press/Player Will Call window at the main ticket office at Gate 29 on the day of the game, no earlier than 1 1/2 hours before game time. No tickets will be mailed out in advance.

INTERVIEWS

Most interviews may be conducted on the field during batting practice where the manager, players and coaches are usually available, as long as the interview does not interrupt their pre-game routine. Members of the media must stay in foul territory between first and third base. In-depth interviews that require more time with a player should be pre-arranged through the Baseball Communications department. Reporters and broadcasters must leave the field, with photographers reporting to their assigned photo positions, no later than one-half hour before game time.

CLUBHOUSE ACCESS

The Twins' clubhouse will be open to media with clubhouse credentials until one hour prior to each game and no longer than 10 minutes following each game. All live television broadcast shots must be conducted outside the clubhouse. Television photographers are allowed in the clubhouse prior to batting practice and after games, but not between batting practice and game time. Still photographers are not allowed in the clubhouse at any time. On occasion of a team meeting, the clubhouse will be closed until the conclusion of the meeting. The training room, dining room and weight room are off-limits to everyone except the manager, coaches, players and Twins' officials. The dugout is off limits during the game for everyone except the manager, coaches, players, trainers and certain club officials, in accordance with American League rules.

FIELD ACCESS

Members of the media must access the field through the Umpire/Star Dressing Room Tunnel. The tunnel is located between the Baseball Communications office and the Visiting Clubhouse on the Service Level.

PRESS BOX

Space is available for accredited members of the media on assignment only. Guests are not allowed unless prior approval has been granted by the Baseball Communications Department. Wireless internet is available. To reach the Baseball Communications office and Visiting Clubhouse, take the stairs or elevator down to the Service Level and turn left. To reach the media dining/interview room (Twins Room) and home clubhouse, turn right.

PRESS ROOM

The Twins Room, located on the Service Level (-2), is available for pre-game meals to media with appropriate credentials, for a $10 charge, approximately two hours prior to, and up until, game time. Complete note sets containing statistical information will be available in the dining room, as well as the press box.

PHOTOGRAPHERS

Due to a lack of on-field photo spots, the first and third base photo bays are limited to the two local papers, the two wire services and Twins cameras. Certain exceptions may be made depending on space availability. An alternative for photographers are the two upper deck photo baskets. Photographers assigned to the on-field locations should remain in the photo bays at all times during the game. If necessary, photographers should leave between innings only. Photos are allowed during batting practice, but photographers must remain in foul territory, between first and third base. No photographs are to be taken from the baseball press box.

AUTOGRAPHS

Professional journalists do NOT ask for autographs. Any media members asking for autographs will have their credentials revoked.

PARKING

There is no on-site parking available at the Target Field, but municipal ramps and parking lots are available near the stadium.

FOR MORE INFORMATION regarding policies or questions about interviews, photo requests, statistical information, media ticket orders, news releases, etc., call Mike Herman (612) 659-3471, Dustin Morse (612) 659-3472, Molly Gallatin (612) 659-3475, or Mitch Hestad (612) 659-3473.

MINNESOTA TWINS BALLPARKS

HUBERT H. HUMPHREY METRODOME

- Opened on April 3, 1982, the Hubert H. Humphrey Metrodome has been home to the Twins for the past 23 years. It was the third domed facility in baseball and remains the only air-supported structure among the 28 in use.
- The Metrodome was the only stadium in the world to play host to the World Series (1987 and 1991), baseball's All-Star Game (1985), the Super Bowl (XXVI, 1992) and the NCAA Final Four Basketball Tournament (1992 and 2001).
- Construction began on December 20, 1979 and was built by the state of Minnesota at a cost of approximately $68 million.
- Field dimensions were 343' down the leftfield line, 385' to the leftfield power alley, 408' to dead centerfield, 367' to the rightfield power alley and 327' down the line in right. The fence in leftfield and centerfield was 7' high and the one in rightfield was 23' high, including 16' of plastic tarp installed in 1983.
- April 14, 1983: Roof deflated due to tear caused by heavy snow and the scheduled game with California was postponed.
- May 4, 1984: Oakland's Dave Kingman hit a ball into one of roof's drainage holes in a 4th inning at-bat. The ball never came down and Kingman was awarded a ground rule double.
- April 26, 1986: Roof suffered slight tear due to high winds, causing a nine minute delay in the bottom of the seventh inning vs. California.
- August 29, 1992: A power outage in the third inning caused a 23 minute delay vs. New York.
- August 5, 2001: A power outage in the area of Minneapolis surrounding the Metrodome caused the air conditioning to shut down, heating the inside of the dome during the game to a high temperature of 91 degrees, as the Twins fell to the Royals, 10-5.
- October 2, 2004: The Twins and Indians were forced to suspend their game after the 11th inning due to a curfew rule in effect for the University of Minnesota football game.
- October 2, 2005: Upon the conclusion of his 50th year of broadcasting baseball, the Twins re-named the Baseball Press Box "The Herb Carneal Press Box", in memory of their long-time radio broadcaster. Carneal died on April 1, 2007.
- August 2, 2007: The Twins and Royals postponed their 12:10 pm game a day after Interstate 35W bridge collapse in Minneapolis.

Figuring the Magic Number

To determine a team's 'magic number' in the pennant race, compute the number of games remaining, add one, then subtract the number of games ahead in the loss column of the standings of the closest opponent.

MEDICAL GLOSSARY

The following glossary was provided by the Professional Baseball Athletic Trainers Society.

AC Joint: Acromioclavicular joint; joint of the shoulder where acromion process of the scapula and the distal end of the clavicle meet; most shoulder separations occur at this point.

Abscess: An infection which produces pus; can be the result of a blister, callus, penetrating wound or laceration.

Adhesion: Abnormal adherence of collagen fibers to surrounding structures during immobilization following trauma or as a complication of surgery which restricts normal elasticity of the structures involved.

Aerobic: Exercise in which energy needed is supplied by oxygen inspired and is required for sustained periods of vigorous exercise with a continually high pulse rate.

Anaerobic: Exercise without oxygen as an energy source; short bursts of vigorous exercise.

Anterior Compartment Syndrome: Condition in which swelling within the anterior compartment of the lower leg jeopardizes the viability of muscles, nerves and arteries that serve the foot. In severe cases, emergency surgery is necessary to relieve the swelling and pressure.

Anterior Cruciate Ligament (ACL): A primary stabilizing ligament within the center of the knee joint that prevents hyperextension and excessive rotation of the joint. A complete tear of the ACL necessitating reconstruction could require up to 12 month of rehabilitation.

Anterior Talofibular Ligament: A ligament of the ankle that connects the fibula (later ankle bone) to the talus. This ligament is often times subject to sprain.

Anti-Inflammatory: Any agent which prevents inflammation, such as aspirin or ibuprofen.

Arteriogram: A film demonstrating arteries after injection of a dye.

Arthrogram: X-ray technique for joints using air and/or dye injected into the affected area; useful in diagnosing meniscus tears of the knee and rotator cuff tears of the shoulder.

Arthroscope: An instrument used to visualize the interior of a joint cavity.

Arthroscopy: A surgical examination of the internal structures of a joint by means of viewing through an arthroscope. An arthroscopic procedure can be used to remove or repair damaged tissue or as a diagnostic procedure in order to inspect the extent of any damage or confirm a diagnosis.

Aspiration: The withdrawal of fluid from a body cavity by means of a suction or siphonage apparatus, such as a syringe.

Atrophy: To shrivel or shrink from disuse, as in muscular atrophy.

Avascular Necrosis: Death of a part due to lack of circulation.

Avulsion: The tearing away, forcibly, of a part or structure.

Baker's Cyst: Localized swelling of a bursa sac in the posterior knee as a result of fluid that has escaped from the knee capsule. A Baker's cyst indicates that there is a trauma inside the knee joint that leads to excessive fluid production.

Bennett's Fracture: A fracture and dislocation of the base of the first metacarpal, the thumb.

Bone Scan: An imaging procedure in which a radioactive-labelled substance is injected into the body to determine the status of a bony injury.

Bursa: A fluid-filled sac that is located in areas where friction is likely to occur, then minimizes the friction; for example between a tendon and bone.

Capsule: Enclosing structure surrounding a joint, containing ligaments which stabilize that joint.

Chondral Fracture: Fracture to the chondral (cartilaginous) surfaces of bone.

Chondromalacia: Roughening of the articular cartilage. Best known for the roughening of the underside of the patella, which can occur in any patellofemoral injury.

Coccyx: The "tail bone"; a group of four vertebrae that are fused together, located at the terminal end of the spine.

Computed Tomography (CT): Method of visualizing the body's soft tissues. Using x-rays with the beam passing repeatedly through the body part, the CT scans while a computer calculates tissue absorption at each point scanned.

Concentric Muscle Contraction: A shortening of the muscle as it develops tension and contracts to move a resistance.

Congenital: Existing before birth; to be born with.

Conjunctivitis: Inflammation of the membrane lining the eyelids and covering the eyeball.

Contractures: Abnormal, usually permanent contraction of a muscle due to atrophy of muscle fibers, extensive scar tissue over a joint, or other factors.

Costochondral: Cartilage that separates the bones within the rib cage.

Cryotherapy: A treatment with use of cold.

Cyst: Abnormal sac containing liquid or semi-solid matter.

Debridement: Removal of non-healthy tissues and foreign material from a wound or burn to prevent infection and permit healing.

Degenerative Joint Disease: Changes in the joint surfaces as a result of repetitive trauma.

Deltoid Ligament: Ligament that connects the tibia to bones of the medial aspect of the foot and is primarily responsible for stability of the ankle on the medial side.

Deltoid: Muscles at the top of the arm, below the shoulder, responsible for shoulder motions.

Disc, Intervertebral: A flat, rounded plate between each vertebrae of the spine. The disc consists of a thick fiber ring which surrounds a soft gel-like interior. It functions as a cushion and shock absorber for the spinal column.

Eccentric Muscle Contraction: An overall lengthening of the muscle as it develops tension and contracts to control motion performed by an outside force; of times referred to a "negative" contraction in weight training. Eccymosis-Bleeding into the surface tissue below the skin, resulting in a "black and blue" effect.

Edema: Accumulation of fluid in organs and tissues of the body; swelling.

TREASURE ISLAND BASEBALL NETWORK

In an effort to ensure a major league quality broadcast, expand the team's regional marketing efforts and drive market radio revenues, the Minnesota Twins assumed complete control of the team's radio broadcast rights following the 2006 season.

In 2006, the Minnesota Twins announced that Hubbard Broadcasting's AM 1500 KSTP would be the team's Twins Cities metropolitan area radio affiliate. The Twins-Hubbard Broadcasting agreement, which runs through the 2010 season, calls for AM 1500 KSTP to broadcast all regular and postseason games and at least 25 spring training games. As part of the Twins-Hubbard broadcasting agreement, the Twins produce the game broadcasts including pre-game and post-game shows. AM 1500 KSTP, and the stations of the network, also air a variety of Twins-related year-round ancillary programming including "The Ron Gardenhire Show", "Inside Twins" with Twins General Manager Bill Smith, "Extra Innings" Sunday afternoon talk show hosted by Jack Morris and the off-season "Talkin' Twins" program.

The Twins-Hubbard agreement calls for the baseball team to assume control and development of the Treasure Island Baseball Network. Currently featuring 79 stations and counting, the Twins and network distribution partner, the Minnesota News Network (MNN), continue efforts to expand the network. Historically, the network has been one of the largest in all of Major League Baseball with hometown radio partners bringing Twins baseball to fans across five states. The Twins and MNN maintain their commitment in promoting the ballclub to fans throughout Twins Territory via the network, with special events such as Winter Caravan and active local affiliate promotion.

The Twins commitment to providing a high quality and entertaining broadcast will go hand-in-hand with preserving the club's rich radio broadcasting history. The Treasure Island Baseball Network broadcast booth team of John Gordon, Dan Gladden and Jack Morris will return for the 2010 season. The Twins will produce pre-game and post-game shows hosted by Kris Atteberry.

The Twins return to 107.5 LaMera Buena and 95.9 Spirit FM to broadcast at least 50 games in Spanish. Alfonso Fernandez begins his fifth season as play-by-play voice with Tony Oliva as the analyst.

The Detroit native began his broadcasting career with the Spartanburg Phillies in 1965 after graduating from Indiana University. After five years with Spartanburg, Gordon joined the Baltimore Orioles where he remained until 1973, when he accepted the broadcasting job at the University of Virginia to become the voice of Cavaliers football and basketball. From there, he joined the Yankees' Class AAA affiliate Columbus Clippers from 1977-81, before moving to New York in 1982. For his work with the Spartanburg Phillies, Gordon was inducted into the South Atlantic League's Hall of Fame on June 19, 2001. He was also inducted into the Minnesota Broadcasting Hall of Fame on October 10, 2008.

John and his wife, Nancy, have two grown children and make their home in Ft. Myers, FL. They dedicate countless time and effort to the "Touch 'Em All" Golf Tournament with proceeds going to the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Minnesota Twins Community Fund.

DAN GLADDEN

PLAY-BY-PLAY/ANALYST

Former Twins' fan favorite Dan Gladden enters his 11th year in the Twins radio broadcast booth, his eighth serving as a full-time analyst.

Gladden played in the Major Leagues for 11 years and retired from professional baseball following the 1994 season. He finished his career batting .270 with 203 doubles, 40 triples, 74 home runs, 446 rbi and 221 stolen bases in 1,197 games.

He made his big league debut in 1983 with the San Francisco Giants, with whom he played for three seasons, and was named to both Topps' and Baseball Digest All-Rookie teams in 1984. He was acquired along with pitcher David Blakely by Minnesota in exchange for pitchers Jose Dominguez, Bryan Hickerson and Ray Velasquez on March 31, 1987 and spent five years with the Twins before signing as a free agent with Detroit in 1992. He spent his last year in professional baseball playing for the Yomiuri Giants of the Japanese Central League in 1994. From there, Gladden was a Major League advance scout for the Colorado Rockies from 1996-98 and a minor league roving instructor for San Francisco in 1999.

Always known as a fiery competitor, Gladden was a key ingredient in the Twins' 1987 and '91 World Championships. His grand slam home run in Game 1 of the '87 Series vs. St. Louis, capped a seven-run 4th inning and he scored the game-winning run in the 10th inning in Game 7 of the '91 Series vs. Atlanta.

Dan, wife Janice and daughters Ashley and Whitney, make their home in Eden Prairie, MN.

JACK MORRIS

ANALYST

Jack Morris begins his sixth season as a broadcaster for the Twins in 2010.

Morris, 54, is a 1973 graduate of Highland Park High School in St. Paul. He went on to play three seasons at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah, before being drafted in the 5th round of the 1976 draft by the Detroit Tigers.

During his 18-year career, Morris had a record of 254-186, 3.90 ERA with 1390 walks and 2478 strikeouts, and won 10-or-more games 14 times during his career. A five-time All-Star, he was named the Most Valuable Player of the 1991 World Series after going 2-0 with a 1.17 ERA in three starts vs. the Atlanta Braves, including a 10-inning complete game victory to win Game Seven.

TWINS' 2010 TELEVISION BROADCASTERS

BERT BLYLEVEN

TWINS TELEVISION, COLOR ANALYST

This will be the Dutchman's 15th full season as color commentator for the Twins. Blyleven, who pitched in the Major Leagues for 23 years, including 11 seasons with the Twins, retired following the 1992 season. He served as pitching coach of Team Netherlands in the 2009 World Baseball Classic.

The native of Zeist, Holland, broke in with the Twins in 1970 at the age of 19. He retired at the age of 42 and is only the second Major League pitcher of all-time to win a Major League game before his 20th birthday and after his 40th birthday. Blyleven also pitched at the Major League level with Texas, Pittsburgh, Cleveland and California. As a Twins starter, Bert had 345 career starts and a combined record of 149-138, 3.28 ERA and still holds the club record for strikeouts (2,035), shutouts (29) and complete games (141). He posted double figure wins in 17 different seasons. As a member of the Twins, he became a 20-game winner in 1973 (20-17, 2.52) while leading the American League with 40 starts and 25 complete games, 9 shutouts and 325 innings, still a Twins record for a season. One of his most memorable moments occurred in 1977 when as a member of the Texas Rangers, Bert tossed a no-hitter defeating California 6-0 at Anaheim Stadium.

On baseball's all-time list, Blyleven ranks fifth in strikeouts (3,701), ninth in games started (685), ninth in shutouts (60), 13th in innings (4,970.1), and 24th in wins (287). He was voted A.L. Rookie Pitcher of the Year in 1970 and A.L. Comeback Player of the Year in 1989. Bert pitched in two All-Star Games, three Championship series and two World Series with the Twins and Pirates, achievements that should put him in Baseball's Hall of Fame.

While nurturing a reputation as a practical joker on the field and in the booth, Bert has demonstrated a serious side off the field when it involves community service. He continues to work with a host of charities for a variety of worthwhile causes including the Ronald McDonald House.

Bert and his wife, Gayle, and their sons Royle and David make their home in Ft. Myers, FL.

DICK BREMER

TWINS TELEVISION, PLAY-BY-PLAY

The 2010 season will be Dick Bremer's 29th season as a broadcaster for the Twins

Bremer, who graduated from St. Cloud State in 1978, began with the Twins in 1983 broadcasting games for Spectrum Sports. He remained there until 1985 and re-joined the team in 1987, working a two-year stint for TwinsVision. He worked with WCCO-TV and Midwest Sports Channel from 1989-2001.

The Staples (MN) High School grad has also been the voice of University of Minnesota basketball, football and hockey and has called games for University of Iowa basketball and the Minnesota North Stars in his 27-year career.

Dick and his wife Heidi, along with their son Erik and daughter Hannah, make their home in Saint Michael, MN.

TWINS' SPRING TRAINING MEDIA POLICIES

SEASON CREDENTIALS

(Including parking): Issued only to daily newspaper reporters who will be covering the club, home and road, and to area radio and TV sports reporters and camera crews who will be covering on a regular basis. All other media entities will be credentialed on a per-game basis (including parking) and a letter from the person's editor must be e-mailed to Mike Herman (mikeherman@twinsbaseball.com). No fax requests will be accepted beginning in 2010. Transferal of working press credential will result in the termination of coverage privileges for the individuals involved. A photo ID and signature are required for credential pick-up at the VIP Window.

FIELD ACCESS

Allowed during batting practice and other workouts during the early training period, but once the game schedule begins the field must be cleared at the end of visitors' batting practice. All reporters must confine themselves to foul territory between 1st and 3rd base. Workouts begin daily at approximately 9:00 a.m.

DINING ROOM ACCESS

Available only to those media credentialed to cover that day's game, for a $5 charge. This room will open at 11:30 a.m. for day games (5:30 p.m. for night games) and will close at gametime. Working photographers will be permitted in the press dining room on the same basis as other reporters.

PRESSBOX ACCESS

Permitted only to members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America and to coverage reporters of area daily newspapers and radio and TV stations. Weekly newspapers can be accommodated only on a space-available basis. Wireless internet is available.

CLUBHOUSE ACCESS

Limited to members of the Baseball Writers' Association of America and to coverage reporters of area daily newspapers and radio and TV stations. The clubhouse will be open prior to and following workouts during the pre-schedule workout period with certain exceptions. During the game schedule, the clubhouses will be closed at the end of batting practice until five minutes after games. Clubhouse access is limited to the player-locker area and the manager's office. The training room, exercise room and equipment rooms are off-limits to all media. No still cameras are allowed in the clubhouse.

INTERVIEWS

Players will accommodate when possible where on-field interviews are concerned. Any in-studio appearances or appearances on the player's own time must be set up through the Baseball Communications department.

RADIO & TV

No cameras will be allowed in the clubhouse prior to games and workouts or after workouts. Cameras will be allowed in the clubhouse after games. Feature material should be filmed on the field during batting practice. Post-game interviews may be conducted on the field or in the clubhouse for both TV and radio.

CAMERA POSITIONS

Several camera positions are available for shooting during the game, but no cameras will be allowed on the field itself. The center field position will be for game television cameras only, as will the low home position. High and low, 1st and 3rd base will be credentialed on a space-available basis. Any photographers shooting from the field photo pits will only be allowed to leave or change positions between innings.

PHOTOGRAPHERS

No photographers will be allowed on the field during the game or in the clubhouse at any time. There are at least four positions from which photographers may shoot during games. On the first day of full squad workouts, photographers will be allowed the freedom of the field during the exercise period, but must stay in foul territory during the actual workout times. On all other days, all media personnel must stay in foul territory and no farther down the lines than 1st and 3rd bases. No photographs are to be taken from the baseball press box.

PHOTO DAY

Will be on Monday, March 1, beginning at 8:00 a.m., sharp. All photographers seeking file head shots are asked to cooperate by doing this on Photo Day, when the players will be made available in an assembly line fashion to accommodate all accredited news services.

AUTOGRAPHS

Professional journalists do NOT ask for autographs. Any media members asking for autographs will have their credentials revoked.

TICKETS

May be purchased by coverage personnel out of a block held for this purpose. These are priced at $24 and $22 each and must be for personal use only and advance notice is recommended to increase chance of availability.

SPRING TRAINING RECORDS

This is the 20th year the Twins are training at Lee County Sports Complex after having trained at Orlando's Tinker Field from 1936-90.
The Twins' minor league training drills were switched from Melbourne to Terry Park in Fort Myers in 1990 and the entire organization was united at the Lee County Complex in 1991.
Complete spring training team statistics have been kept only since 1965. The various categorical highs since then have been as follows:

LEE COUNTY SPORTS COMPLEX

The Twins will spend their 20th spring training season at the Lee County Sports Complex in 2010. Spurred by the state-of-the-art facility, the Twins won the 1991 World Series after enjoying their most successful spring training camp in history as they posted a record-high 21 wins. In the 19 years the Twins have drawn at total of 1,919,683 fans for 307 dates, an average of 6,253 per game (total does not include 17 replacement games in 1995 which drew 49,240 fans).

Located south of the city of Fort Myers near Interstate 75, the Lee County Complex is home to the Twins and their six minor league affiliates. It features five full and two half-fields, the centerpiece of which is an 8,000-seat stadium in which the major league Twins play their exhibition games and conduct some of their daily workouts. The main stadium was renamed Bill Hammond Stadium late in the 1994 spring season in honor of Deputy County Manager who was instrumental in getting the complex approved and bringing the Twins to Lee County.

The Sports Complex is the home to two of Minnesota's minor league affiliates, housing both the Miracle of the Class A Florida State League and the Rookie level Gulf Coast League Twins.

Complete home and visiting clubhouses are included in the stadium proper, and complete facilities for the minor league teams are contained in a building adjacent to their playing fields. A 6,000 square foot state-of-the-art fitness training room and conference center was built next to the minor league facility, which opened at the start of the 2005 spring training. During the winter of 2007, Lee County and the Twins implemented a variety of improvements to Hammond Stadium, including installation of a grassy berm (featuring lawn seating for 230 fans) adjacent to right field and relocation of the visiting team bullpen to the right-field corner; installation of a drink rail (featuring 50 ticketed locations) and party deck behind the grass berm; installation of two new rows of seats (125 seats in total) at field level between the dugouts. Prior to the start of the 2008 spring schedule, new lights and seats were put in at Hammond Stadium.

The major league club's administrative offices are located in the stadium, with the minor league department's offices in the building adjacent to its fields.

The complex also features a softball complex and other athletic facilities for use by Lee County organizations, plus an eight-acre water-management lake for public fishing.

The Twins trained in Orlando, Florida, from 1936 (with the exception of the war years of 1943, '44 and '45, when they conditioned in College Park, Maryland) to 1990, and their minor league clubs moved to Terry Park in Fort Myers in 1990, after headquartering in Melbourne, Florida, from 1964-89.

The Lee County Sports Complex, a $14,000,000 undertaking, was completed in February, 1991. Lescher and Mahoney, an architectural and engineering firm based in Tampa, Florida, were the lead architects for the project, with design assistance from Ellerbe-Becket of Kansas City, Missouri. Case Contracting Company of Plant City, Florida, was the contractor.

On August 3, 2004, the Twins signed an extension with Lee County for use of the complex through 2020.
